Trojan Prayer

O God, our Maker, we pray to You, Who holds all knowledge, that You might grant us these things that we, as students, desire:

Give us knowledge as a fruit of our labor, and wisdom in its use. May we thankfully utilize every opportunity to learn.

Give us discernment between truth and error; give us courage to defend the truth, and brotherly love toward those who disagree with us, no matter how wrong they seem to be.

Keep us honest toward our teachers, our classmates, and ourselves in our search for knowledge.

Give us faith to believe in the worth of the truth and its power to enable mankind.

Give us a sense of responsibility to You, to our fellow-man, and to ourselves in the use of our knowledge. May we always prove faithful to this responsibility.

Donald R. Laing, Jr., '49

Trojan Creed

We believe it is our duty as California Trojans — wearers of Burgundy and Gold — to uphold the noble qualities for which these symbols stand:

A sincerity of purpose;

A real desire to learn;

A body strong and healthy;

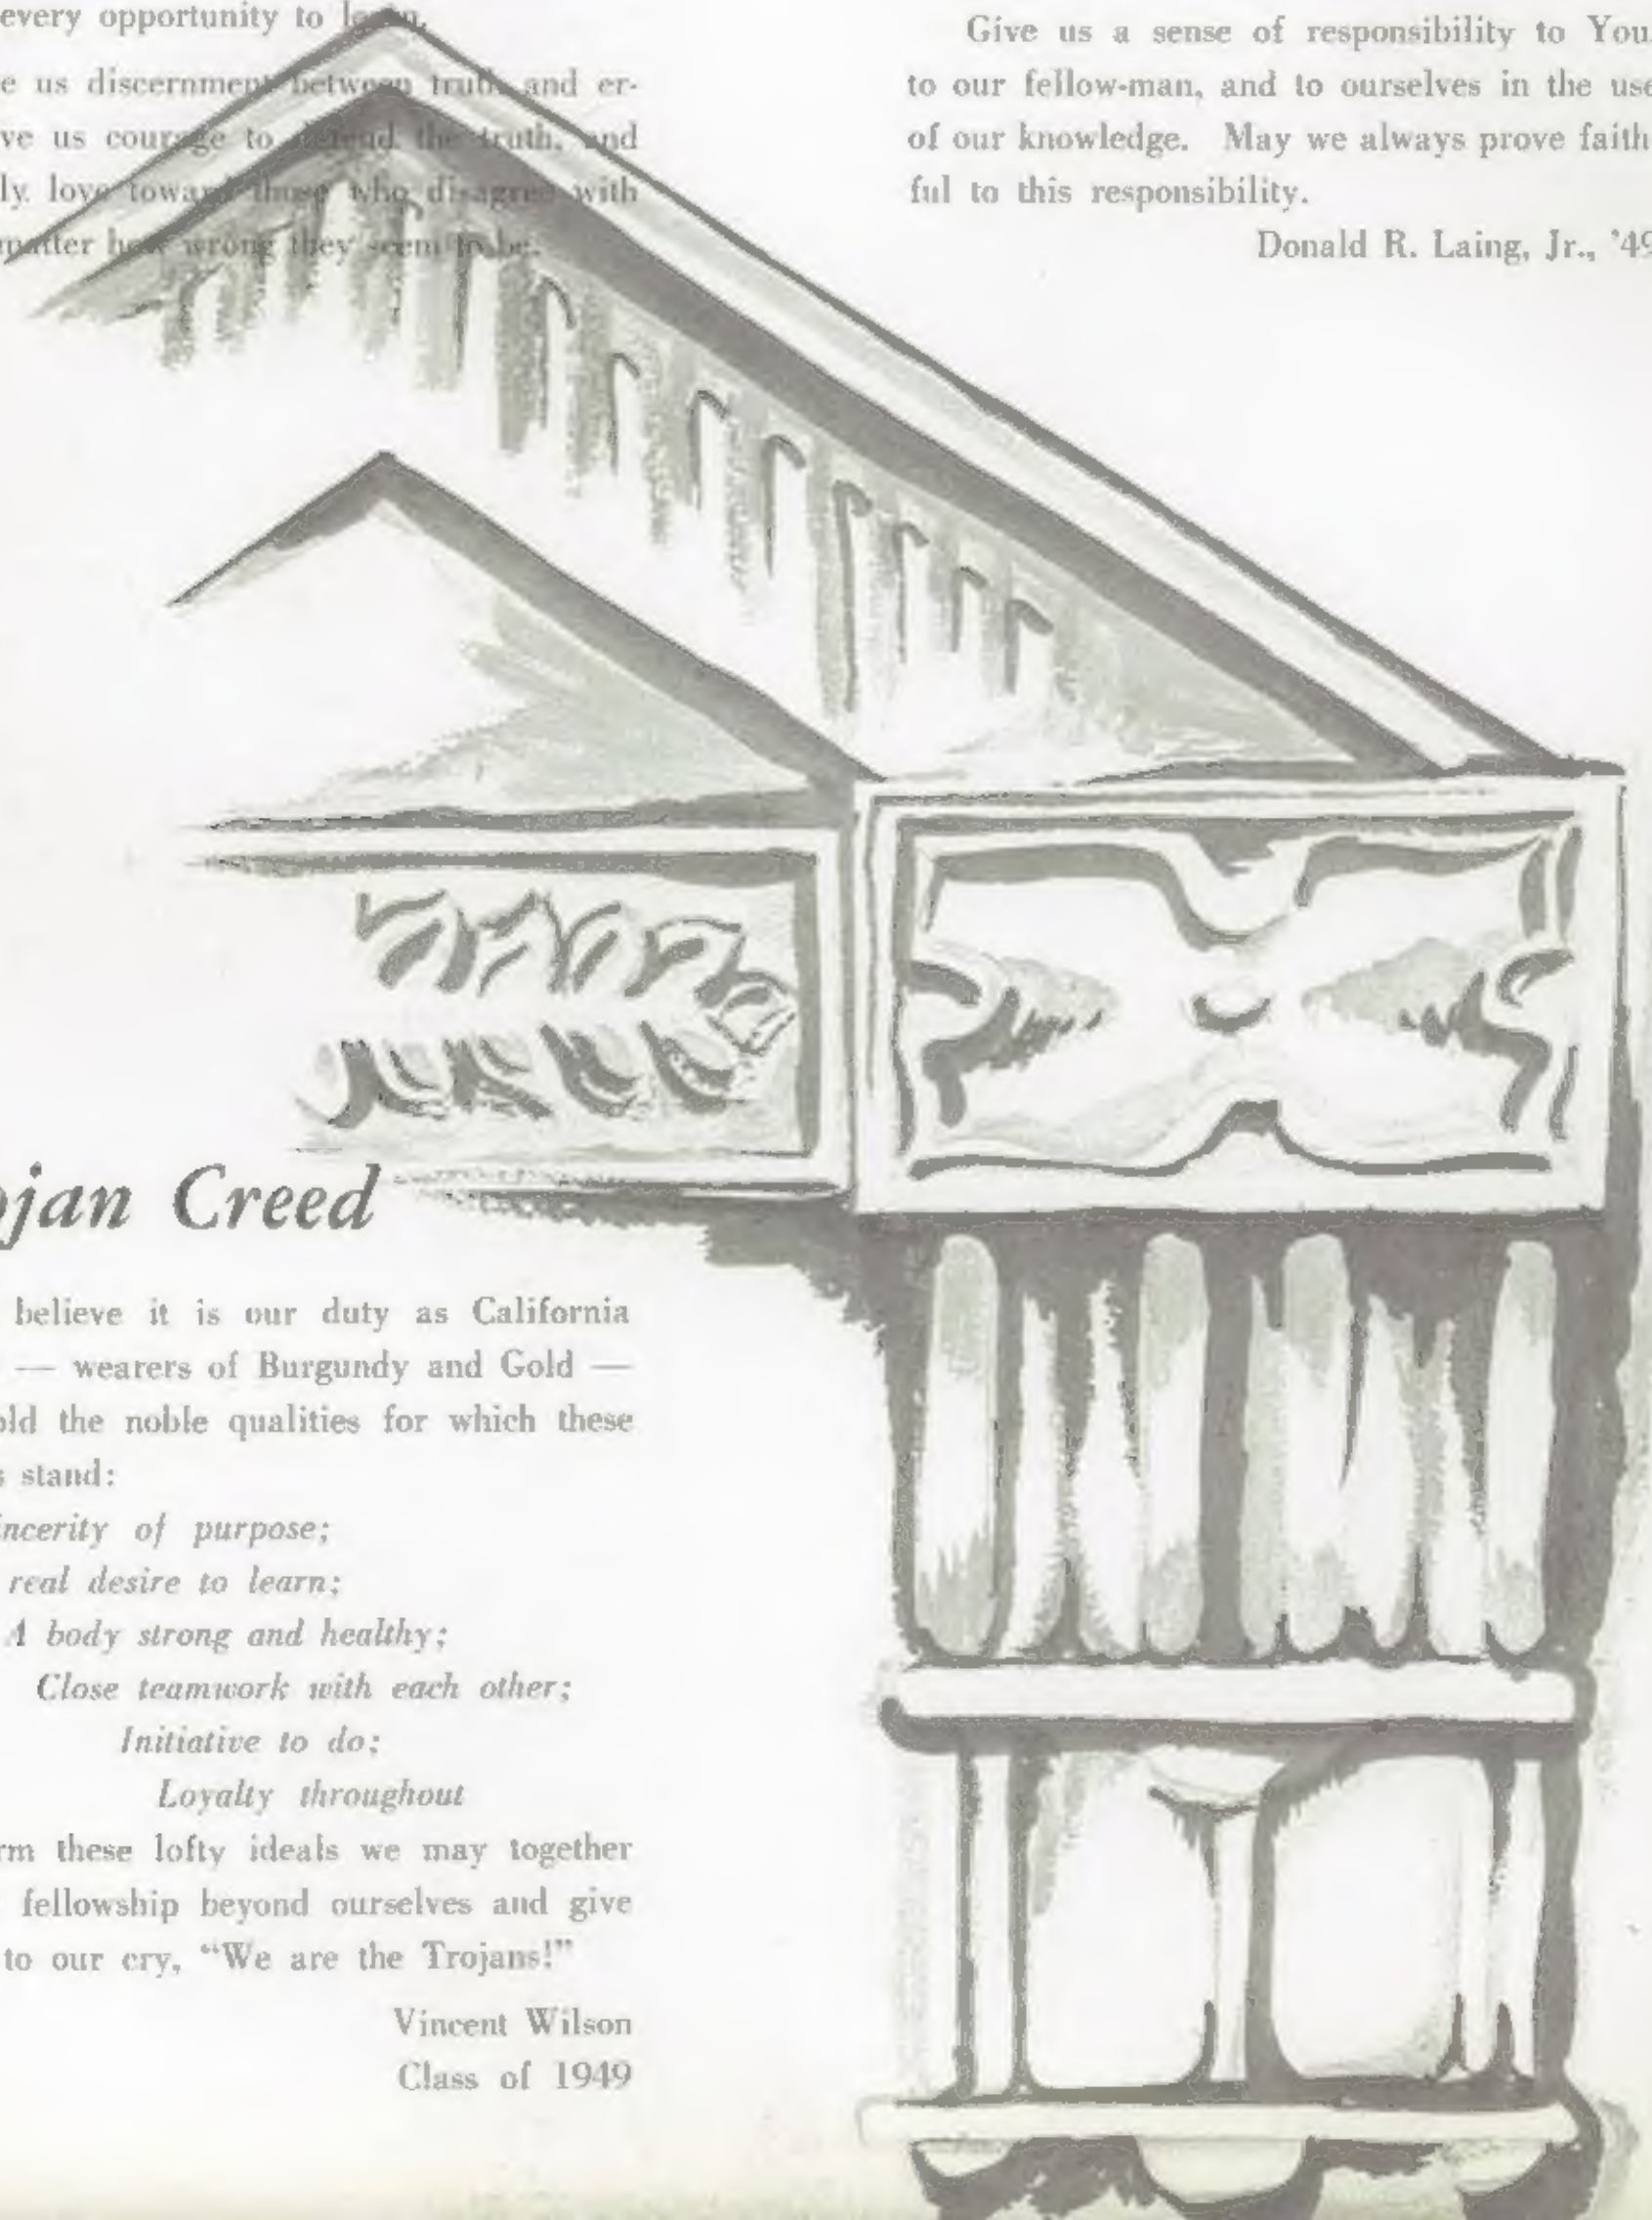

Close teamwork with each other;

Initiative to do;

Loyalty throughout that form these lofty ideals we may together build a fellowship beyond ourselves and give stature to our cry, "We are the Trojans!"

Dedication

As a small token of our appreciation, we are proud to dedicate the 1960 MONTAGE to you — Miss Permelia Baldwin. Your winning smile and pleasant manner have made an indelible mark on our memory. You will always be remembered as a friend and helpmate to us. Your aid in suggesting books to suit our reading tastes, your assistance in helping us to do those impossible research papers, your active part in sponsoring the N.F.L., the Library Club, and your expert guidance and coaching which have made the N.F.L.'s fine record possible are only a few of the things for which we are grateful.

We hope that this small tribute will repay a part of what we owe to you. Therefore, on behalf of all of the students of C.C.H.S. we offer to you our heartiest congratulations and best wishes for a full and happy life.

A Salute to the Old

Foreword

When a family moves to a new home, the small, trifling things that happened in the old soon fade — only those things of moment form memories as they enter the new.

Since we, the family of students who have attended "old" C.C.H.S., will soon move to our new school, we wish to make an exception.

We want to remember this old red brick building with its crowded hallways at class-changing time, the pause for refreshment at the coke and milk machines, the squeaky seat — the third one in the fifth row, and the pencil-sharpener in which the little blonde-headed girl got her finger stuck. We want to remember the scarred desks bearing the names of "high-school sweethearts." We want to remember the dances in the school gym with the bits of colored crepe paper that make it look like a grand ballroom to our imaginative eyes.

We want to remember the steps we climbed, the doors we opened, the blackboards we wrote upon, the seats we sat in. These things, seemingly insignificant things, hold fond memories in our hearts.

The years that we spent at California Community High School did more than give us memories. We have learned to make decisions; we have acquired responsibility; we have matured, and we have become educated in various subjects.

As rough freshmen, we made our entrance through the old oak door. And now, four years later, we make our exit through that same door as polished seniors, ready to face the world with a smile on our lips and knowledge in our eyes.

Behind any operating organization is to be found a group of people who are responsible for its efficient and correct functioning. Our administration was busy far in advance of that first day in September, planning our individual courses of study and making changes, for our benefit, in our curricula as well as in the physical plant of our system. Never once were they retarded in their efforts to achieve the highest degree of excellence possible in our educational program. In this, the last year of our double sessions, our administration has reached a new zenith in advancement. The long and cherished dream of having a new school, accompanied by anxious waiting as the structure was erected, has at last been terminated; we have been assured of graduating from the new building. As the administration prepares to move into the modern and improved institution of knowledge, one cannot help looking back at the fond moments possessed forever only by the past. We now, certainly appreciate the true foundation of our organization, our administration. To them we extend our thanks and gratitude.

ADMINISTRATION

Supervising Principal

Memories are precious — our ties to the old. Here is the one way to bridge time and relive the best of the old as we enter the new.

In the old, as I recall, we thought of education as the business of helping each of us see his relation to the whole, of developing skills, of building against prejudices — remembering that discrimination spoils teamwork, of learning to appreciate religious freedom, preparing ourselves to disagree agreeably in religious matters.

We thought of education as helping each of us maintain his physical and mental health — of creating in each of us good social motives helping each to understand that he is responsible for his own discipline for his own educational progress and in that way for increasing his own chances of happiness.

Place all these in a caldron, boil them down, and we find that our educational stew embracing the old spells vital, effective thinking.

Is not this what we expect of the new?

Principal

"The old order changeth, yielding place to new." — Tennyson

A half-era of startling changes — population growth, release of nuclear energy, new process, mandated strengthening of curriculums has created a new philosophy of American public education — a philosophy that is distorting the basic purposes for which democracy has striven. The strongest defense of our nation lies in the courage, adaptability, competence, and high purpose of its citizens to mold material changes to the measure of a free, democratic society based on ethical values and the worth and dignity of human life. It is the supreme function of education to see that humanistic studies and social sciences are kept abreast of technological progress so that man remains the master, rather than the slave of the machine.

Mr. John W. Coatsworth, Curriculum Coordinator, B.S. in Education, C.S.T.C.; M Ed., University of Pittsburgh

Mr. Donald S. Cornell, Principal, B.S. in Education, C.S.T.C.; M Ed., University of Pittsburgh

Cicero has written, "For as I like a young man in whom there is something of the old, so I like an old man in whom there is something of the young." Let us combine in our new school dignity, wisdom, and serenity, characteristics of age with enthusiasm, initiative, and idealism, the attributes of youth. Curricular-wise, let us preserve those elements which are true and useful, re-activate those possessing these virtues but which have become non-functional, and abandon those which contribute little to our democratic society.

Mr. Strickler L. Pollock, B.S. in Education C.S.T.C., M.Ed. University of Pittsburgh, Guidance

Guidance Counselor

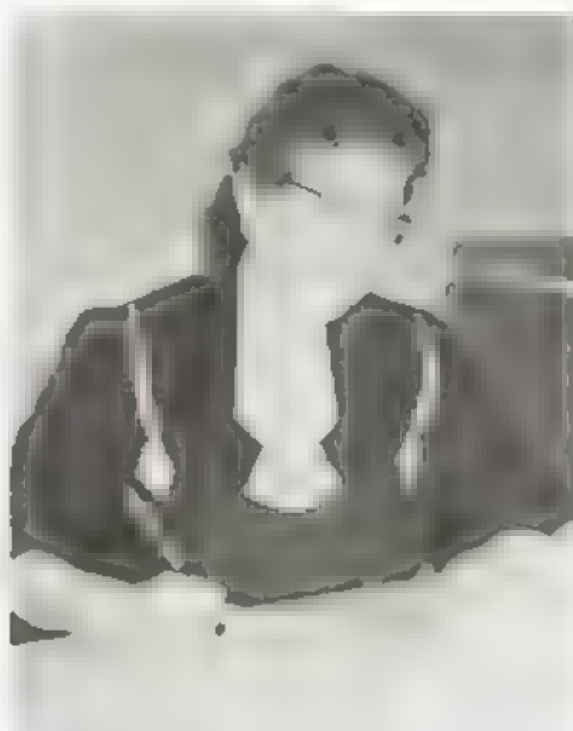

It has been said that there is nothing new under the sun — all that is happening is merely a repetition of history; and that by studying the events of the past, we can foresee the course of the world of tomorrow. This was all very true only yesterday and mankind was smug in believing that nothing could occur with which he could not cope, but today's events are so fantastic as to make all history become insignificant, and we must search again the lessons of the past for guidance into the future. Man has learned two great lessons from the past; the first of these is faith — faith that somehow all will turn out for the best. We know that it has always been so and we have every reason to believe it will continue to be true; and the second of these is courage — courage without which there can be no tomorrow, for tomorrow will be another today, and the day after tomorrow will be a yesterday.

Board of Education

The Board of Education, the elected body of our educational system, formulates school policy. Crowded conditions, the burning of the Philipsburg building, recent emphasis on improved educational standards and increased school facilities, numerous trips to Harrisburg to discuss plans with the Department of Public Instruction, and rising costs have created new problems. This body has worked untiringly at supplying us adequately with all our needs. Thanks to their perseverance major obstacles have been removed and plans have been made to enter the new school before the scheduled completion date. Problems ranging from financial appropriations to the difficulties of double sessions have been met satisfactorily by the dedicated individuals of the Board of Education whose uppermost thoughts are the best possible education for the students of C.C.H.S. To this group of citizens, the Class of 1960 wishes to express its gratitude for their support and cooperation.

While last minute preparations were being made to leave our old school, the seniors began realizing that it was here that they would leave their fondest memories. Here they had been taught the responsibilities of leadership and the value of close team work. In spite of the steel strike, the Trojan "perseverance to continue" made all club records ones to be envied. Barcalaureate and Graduation concluded their fond memories as Trojans. The junior class was working in anticipation of the leadership that would soon be theirs. They had become a vital part of all extra-curricular activities. The arrival of class rings which would officially make them upperclassmen was eagerly awaited. The awe of California still made the sophomores feel insecure. Clubs and activities were tested although a feeling of skepticism and insecurity was felt. However, their enthusiastic behavior and outstanding desire to learn became a welcome asset to any organization. The experiences of these Trojans would soon become memories of something old an old school with a student body that truly fulfilled the standards of a California Trojan.

SCHOOLS

Senior History

In the fall of 1954 the seventh graders from the district were brought together for the first time, unaware that they were destined to become one of California's finest graduating classes.

The first day we felt quite uneasy among the maze of classrooms, halls, and especially the giant upperclassmen; and we wondered how we would ever win their favor. Then we discovered the extra-curricular activities; the glee club, the band, sports, and clubs which gave us a chance to display our "special" talents.

Time passed, and at last we found ourselves with some authority as the freshmen class dominating the junior high. School spirit began to develop inside us with the success of our junior high football and basketball teams and even our own prom.

Soon after the prom we were confronted with a new challenge — that of becoming sophomores. We soon lost our superior feeling but not in all respects, for the classes were easier than we had anticipated, and we noticed a change in the teachers who developed more of an informal atmosphere.

Anxiously we joined the clubs once again to prove our abilities. Our enthusiasm at football and basketball games and choral competition became recognized.

We selected our class rings and prepared to take our positions as juniors. The biggest change occurred in the classes which became more difficult. Can any academic student forget Algebra II?

At last after eleven years of waiting we reached the zenith — that of becoming seniors. Before we realized our position the year was already drawing to a close. Soon the glamour and enchantment of the prom became a memory and we thought of our last meeting graduation.

Juniors

Prelude to graduation

The Sophomore year passed quickly and we found ourselves leaving our sophomore activities and classes, and eagerly anticipating our future as seniors. We knew that our future would hold many new things — new teachers, different subjects, more activities, and best of all — a new school building. As we looked forward to a full-day session and our new physical surroundings, we knew that we would have to work hard to keep our ideals high, and always to push forward.

We didn't stand still by any means. We participated in our activities with wholehearted willingness and enthusiasm. Academically and socially we proved our values and capabilities.

For the sophomores we set high standards; and being a determined and outstanding class, we promised the seniors that we would hold the Trojan banner high.

Sophomores

Became wise with age

Life as a sophomore wasn't as easy as it first appeared. In every challenge we met, we were determined to set an out-standing example for our fellow classmates and future sophomore classes. Each sophomore worked hard to bring up his academic standard. The first responsibility was electing class officers. With this job completed we were more sure of ourselves.

However, life cannot be all work and no play. Our class was well represented in all the sports and activities. After a few weeks we felt that we were at last being accepted by the other students.

The future holds many promises and challenges, but we look forward to these years with anticipation. No matter how much the next years hold, we can never forget the wonderful times we had as sophomores.

The officers talked over their plans for the year. Class Officers: Pres., Frank Campagna, Treas., Paul

Ecclesiastes IX

Our fondest memories will probably be revived by looking at the pictures on the following pages, for most of our social contact came through extra-curricular activities. Who can forget the school spirit reflected by the cheering crowd and peppy band numbers at our football games? Which of us cannot recall the giddy atmosphere when our basketball team was winning, or the pleading look of a silent prayer on each fan's face when we were losing? Many of us can remember the relaxing choir practices, the excitement of the annual concerts, and the efforts and hopes at contests. Clubs played a very important part in the development of social character. Here, each had a chance to display his special talents. With the coming of spring, our sports interests became baseball and tennis. With each crack of the bat or twang of the racket our hopes rose higher. Can you remember the enchantment of the prom, the laughs of May Day? If you can, you will agree that all of these activities were a vital part of our education.

Out-maneuvered the Trojans of early Greece

After a very successful concert season, the California Community High School Band wanted to make this last year at the old school the best. The band was the main cheering section at all the football games and pep rallies. The precision marching of the "Burgundy and Gold" was a familiar sight at many parades throughout the area. The band is composed of senior and junior high school students. All members deserve credit for the countless hours they gave the rehearsals. Under Mr. Thrush's expert guidance, the band participated in many events some of which were the Kennwood Festival of Music, Band Day at Pitt Stadium, the College's Homecoming Parade, the Halloween Parade, the Armistice Day Parade at Monessen, and of course the football games and pep rallies. At the final game Donna Mazzer was crowned head majorette for the Band's next marching season.

Accurate news report

The Burgundian, California Community High School's newspaper, is published by the students under the sponsorship of Mr. Robert Dolan. The assistant editors are juniors who are picked by the editorial staff to replace the seniors when they are graduated. The primary purpose of the Burgundian is to inform the students, faculty, and public of school activities and other items of interest.

Looked to the future

To ease that big step from high school to college is the main purpose of the College Club. Visits are made to local colleges to familiarize the members with them. They enjoy informative talks given by widely known educators. The club offers a fifty dollar scholarship to an outstanding member and gifts of pens or notebooks are given to the seniors.

The vocal groups at C.C.H.S., under the direction of Mrs. Miriam Donovan, provide a means of expression for one-fourth of our student body and a great deal of free entertainment for the civic organizations in our area.

Twice yearly the choral groups present extended programs for the public — the Christmas and Spring Concerts — both of which are followed by a party in the gymnasium.

However, the principal activity of the vocal groups lies in the field of preparation for the annual P.M.F.L. music contests, and it is in these contests that the California music groups have shown their mettle; their record to date is fifteen state winners in the last seven years — the largest number of music championships ever won, by a school of comparable size, in the State of Pennsylvania.

Business Professionals

The F.B.L.A. is a national organization comprised of business education students who are interested in learning more about the business profession. All members must maintain a "C" average and must be willing to work for the club.

F.B.L.A. participates in regional, state and national conventions, and takes part in various activities which develop qualities necessary to become future business leaders.

Graceful and lively

Trojanettes, who are convinced that sports are not just for boys, compose a club known as the Girls' Athletic League. The purpose of the G.A.L. is to develop and to enjoy sports, teamwork, and sportsmanship. G.A.L. members undertake many projects to earn the necessary money for purchasing sweaters for senior girls. The annual Christmas dance is the highlight of the season.

Ancient Rome's lure

The principal purpose of the Latin Club, which has increased our knowledge of ancient Rome, is to comprehend the Romans' cultural, lingual, and intellectual way of life. The club, under the guidance of Mrs. Albright, has presented annual banquets in the old Roman style. To raise the funds for its annual banquet, the club has sold football pins and pennants.

The Art Club is composed of those students who appreciate art and who are trying to learn more about the subject. The members discuss the uses of perspective, color combinations, ceramics, portrait painting, make-up and stage setting. The group keeps the laboratory and its equipment clean and in order. A major project was the plaster model of the new school.

The Staffs have worked diligently to bring you the 1960 Montage. Guided by Mr. Arthur Cairns, the Literary Staff spent numerous, strenuous, and enjoyable hours planning and editing; the Art Staff constructed a working dummy. The Business Staff, under the supervision of Mr. John Kupets, secured the necessary finances to meet publication costs. We hope you enjoy our efforts!

Old standards abide

Senior and junior students were rewarded for their outstanding achievements by membership in the National Honor Society. This organization is for the more scholastic and outstanding individual who endeavors to advance himself through qualities of service, scholarship, and leadership. All members are deemed worthy of holding such an honor, and they hope to uphold these high standards bestowed upon them.

Interpret "Old Spain"

The Spanish Club learned of old Spain and of modern Latin America through vivid reports given at the monthly meetings. The members celebrated Spanish holidays in the traditional Spanish customs. — "Es el custombre!" Spanish songs and dances were performed by the members. As a finale, the Spanish Club, under the sponsorship of Mrs. Gennaula, made a field trip to Pittsburgh.

PARENT PUPIL PARTY — Mrs. Pavlak and Mr. Cairns couldn't hide from the ever searching eye of the camera

Tribute from youth

A record high crowd of three hundred and fifty parents and students attended the annual Parent-Pupil Party sponsored by the Student Council.

The distribution of candy and the colorful candy house in the center of the floor were used to express the theme, "Candyland."

The entertainment provided by the Mixed Ensemble, Girls' Ensemble, Beauty Shoppe quarter, soloists, and an accordion player seemed to arouse everyone's interests.

Refreshments and dancing were the highlights of the program.

This party will always be remembered by both young and old.

Old order changeth

The purpose of C.C.H.S. Students' Day is to create a supply of new teachers. On Students' Day the "top brass" are relieved from their jobs, and the Student Council members become the governing administration.

This staff handles all the daily problems. Each class selects the best qualified student to teach the class, and to assume the responsibilities of the teacher. The person elected for "teacher of the day" must prepare a suitable lesson, and dress appropriately.

Students Day is an old tradition that has given the student body a new understanding of "life as a teacher."

Protected our rights

The Student Council is an attempt to maintain democratic ideals and to give the student body representation and a voice in governing themselves. To qualify for membership one must have a "C" average or better and be recognized as a responsible president of a class, homeroom, or club. Sponsored by Mr. A. Cairns and Mr. Helterbran, the organization has many duties which it carries out by various appointed committees, which are responsible not only for reporting any detrimental actions seen about the school, but also for trying to make school more enjoyable and profitable.

Devotion and service

The Tri-Hi-Y exists to promote high standards of Christian character in the community. Supervised by Mrs. Encapera, these dedicated girls distributed food and clothing to the needy, collected for the crippled children, and participated in community welfare programs. The impressive candlelight induction service, a hayride, and Christmas caroling were also high-spots. Their greatest reward is in doing a service for others.

Bearerers of the torch

The Varsity Club is composed of members of the football, baseball, basketball, and tennis teams. Only those athletes who have earned their letter are eligible for membership. The membership is fairly low but the enthusiasm is high. The club sponsors "Sports Night" to raise money to present their senior members with jackets. Sponsors for the organization are the athletic coaches.

Man's work revealed

Our newest organization in the old school is the Book Club. Miss Baldwin, its sponsor, organized the group as an experiment to increase reading interests. From this club of fifteen seniors, small committees were formed to read new adult-level books and to present informal panel reports to the English classes. The idea soon became a feature of our classes and a benefit to all students

The new service club

November, 1959, marked the debut of the Projection Club, an organization formed for its membership to learn to operate audio-visual equipment. This club offers its services to the teachers and other organizations that need audio-visual aid. The club consists of students from both the senior and the junior high school. The sponsor, Mr. Robert Remy, provides the instruction for the use of the equipment.

Fought with courage

"We are the Trojans, the mighty, mighty Trojans!" This was the arrogant cry heard many times as the gridders at old C.C.H.S. strove to prove it on the gridiron. They were coached by Mr. Norman Davis, former coach at Dunbar High School, who was elected as the new head mentor of the Trojans. Mr. Davis brought with him a different system of football known as the Split-T offense and a different style of playing which he called "hurry-up football."

The season got off to a bad start as the Trojans, hampered by inexperience, lost the opener to Fort Cherry. The next three games were duplicates of the first as the boys committed simple mistakes that proved costly. Finally, after being on the short end in the first four games, the fired-up Davismen upset favored Burgettstown in an impressive fashion. However, the elation was shortlived, for the following week the injury-riddled Trojans lost a heartbreaker as Chartiers tallied the winning touchdown in the final minutes. Still stunned by this defeat, the Californians encountered Bellmar in a sea of mud, a driving rain, and a bitter-cold wind. When the game was called in the fourth quarter, the Hurricanes were on top. But the wet weather did not dampen the Trojan spirit for long as they stormed back with a fine exhibition of teamwork to rout Jefferson. In the final game, Wavnesburg invaded Booster Field with a perfect record. Although the Trojans tried desperately to mar the visitor's record, it remained unblemished.

Thus the gridders' season record of two and seven was not a mighty one, but through their excellent showing of old C.C.H.S.'s high standards of spirit, teamwork, and sportsmanship, they gave stature to the cry "We are the Trojans!"

Cagers went all out

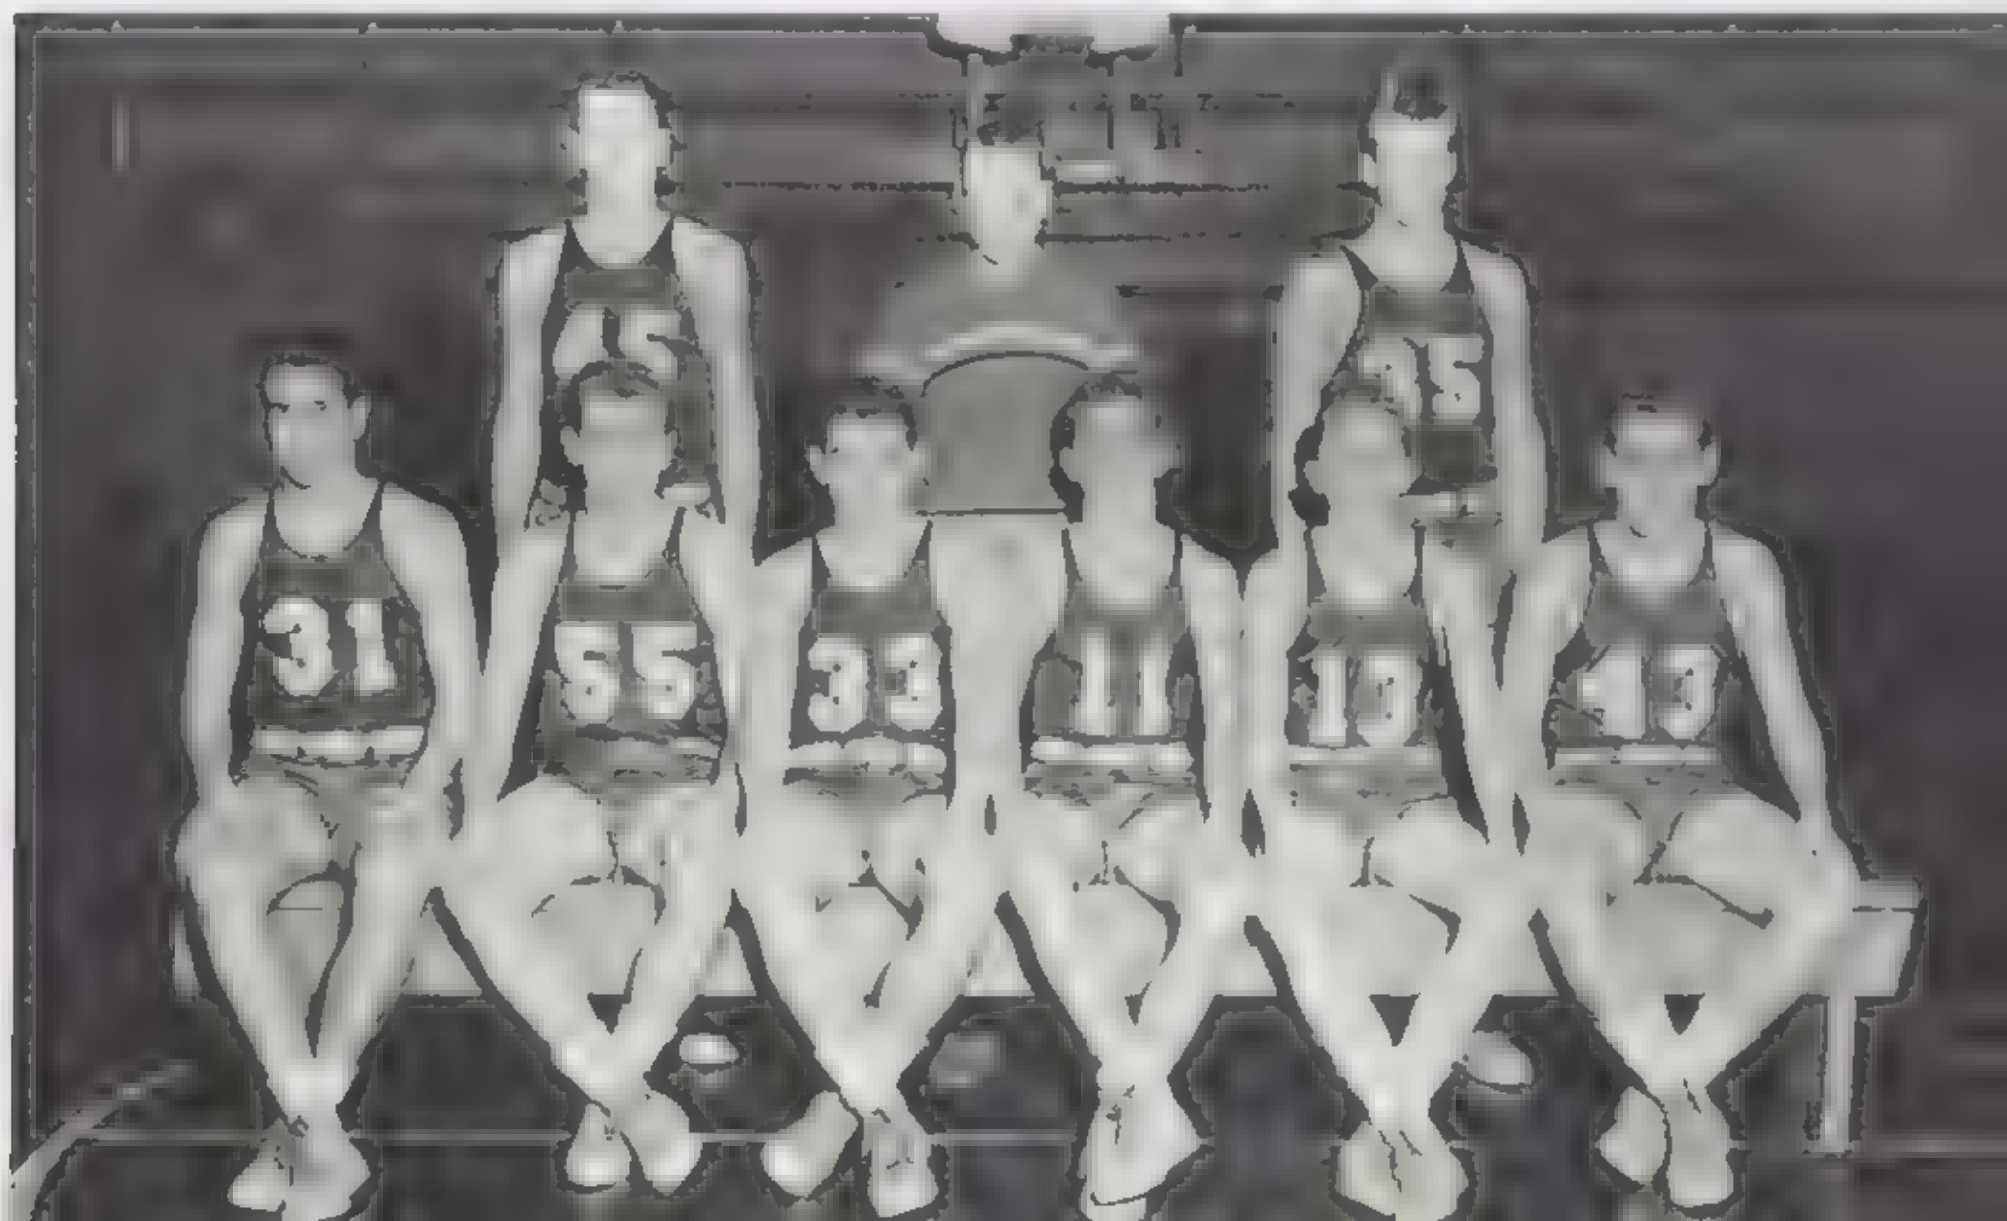

The "oo's" and "ah's" echoed from the rafters as the Trojans played the last season in the old C.C.H.S. gymnasium. The basketballers had already received new red and white uniforms, which made an impressive sight flashing up and down the court. They were determined to avenge the previous season's record of four wins and ten losses, but they were again handicapped by the lack of height and experience, in addition to the loss of Casper Voithofer, their ace scorer. The cagers put an extra effort into molding a team and came up with a fine display of teamwork. However, the going was a little rough and the exhibition season ended with a 2 and 5 record.

The Junior Varsity also deserves credit for their fine showing in the preliminary season. Under the coaching of Mr. Larry Papini, they compiled a 2 and 5 record.

Out with the crowd

The baseball nine began their campaign under a new manager, Mr Papini, and their playing on a new diamond. Most of the positions were held by juniors whose inexperience led to a slightly below average season. The team opened with a close loss to Charleroi, but it later avenged this with a victory over the section leaders. With a season under its belt the team is looking forward to being next year's champs.

Powerful contenders

The members of the California Trojan Tennis Team turned in an excellent record — four wins and two defeats. The team was topped only by Charleroi in W.P.I.A.L. competition. This record was made possible by the many hours of hard work, which were willingly put forth by Mr. Pecuch and the netters. The season had many thrilling moments and proved to be a challenge to the skillful racketeers. The Trojans used the courts of the California State Teachers College as home base.

A court with appeal

The traditional customs of old bid us pay homage to our representative of graciousness - Naomi Russell. As our symbol of loveliness marched in solemn dignity toward her throne, the students displayed mixed emotions of joy and sadness. The brief moments of her reign recalled the "cherished friendships and treasured moments" of her days at California. Moments that were more meaningful because she was "Our Queen."

Beverly Robison, our former Queen and Miss Milkmaid of 1959, crowned Naomi Russell Queen of the May.

Class Day

A Trojan holiday

The season of merriment was upon us, as the student body of C.C.H.S. gathered at Booster Field on May twentieth to pay homage to our May Queen and her court, and to take part in the festivities and pleasures of the day. Reigning over this delightful and most memorable springtime event was Her Majesty, captivating and charming Naomi Russell. There was the usual noise and nonsense, laughter and good cheer as the seniors performed as jesters of the event. The program was a lively portrait of the theme "Around the World with the Class of 1959." There were of course the annual events, the reading of the class will, and the various awards presented to students of worthy recognition, and there were also many pleasant surprises. One of the nicest surprises of the program though, was the dedication of the 1959 Montage to Mr. Arthur Cairns, who was well worthy of the honor. The morning was drawn to a close by the farewell addresses of the class presidents. As a finale of the day, the seniors sang their class song, "Auld Lang Syne," and with mixed emotions they realized how great their high school years had been and wished they could return.

Norman Young's thoughtful pose set the mood for the seniors' program.

Carol Bailey read the class will.

The performers watched the queen take her throne. The costumes and serious expressions were not in agreement.

The past and the present — Queen Naomi Russell with last year's queen, Beverly Robison, reigns over her subjects.

Last year's queen, Beverly Robison, was preceded by Rosemary Flanagan, a senior attendant.

A night of knights

The night which is a dream of every high school girl is the night of the Senior Prom. Every person attending the prom last year on May 8 had his dream fulfilled.

The theme, Rhapsody In Blue, was breath taking. The place of the prom was the California State Teachers College gymnasiums. One gymnasium was used for dancing to the music of Russ Romero's Orchestra and the other for eating the refreshments served by cooperative mothers.

To remember this mystical night, couples had their pictures taken in front of a park scene. To top off a perfect evening, Virginia Morton was crowned Prom Queen of 1959.

It was evident by the smiling faces of the faculty members that the prom was a success.

The P.T.A. was a sponsor with the radio music group in R. R. R. R. R.

Graduation has arrived at last. Joe Deblasio, Tom Bohurjak and Dave Carson shouted it to the world

Triumphant arrival

As we silently and reverently marched down the aisle, faint shadows of the past swept through our minds. Pleasant moments and happy hours with our fellow classmates and teachers were now in the past, but the memories will linger on. Our cherished school will always receive great ovations from this graduating class.

This solemn ritual is only a prelude to a life made fuller through happy associations and memories. We have accomplished much in the past years, but a new horizon looms upon us and we reach out with open arms. The "old" days were good ones, but the new world beckons. With full hearts, we bid farewell to our dear Alma Mater.

Graduation

Carol Charlton and Janice Gustie posed prettily before the long march

The graduation class waited outside the Steele Auditorium for the opening strains of Pomp and Circumstance. Mr. Watkins gave each a final check Front parents stand as the graduates take home their diploma of the graduation exercises.

The baccalaureate Address was given by Mr. Donald Laing. Mr. Cairns and Mr. Corneli gave brotherly remarks.

Over at left Cheryl Heimer with diploma in hand looks her sorority with whom she may share her happiness.

Letter from the editor

Fellow Students,

On behalf of the Montage Staff, I am proud to present to you the fruit of our labor — the 1960 Montage. We hope that in your treasure chest of precious things, you will make room for this edition. We have endeavored to capture the “cherished friendships and treasured moments” of our last year at old C.C.H.S. and put them in a safe-keeping place for future reference. We hope that when you refer to our yearbook, each word and picture will bring back a pleasant memory of the little incidents and happenings that made this year our best. We hope, too, that as you reminisce through our 1960 Montage, you will share the same pride and honor that we do in saluting old C.C.H.S.

Sincerely yours,

Jack Hershlone

Alma Mater

Alma Mater,
Alma Mater,
We will ever sing thy fame
California Community, Brothers in thy name
Laughing voices, Joyous singing
Solemn praise we bring to thee;
Cherished friendships, Treasured moments
In our Memory.
We will hold the Trojan Banner dearly
With pride and honor bright
California Alma Mater
Be our guiding light.

The display case, the center entrance and the stairways will hold a place in our memories for a long time.

The general office, which became the junior high office, was a place we passed daily.

The lecture hall, with its pictures of California and the people who have made it what it is today.

THANK YOU PATR

*Thou shall be served thyself by every sense
Of service which thou renderest —*

Elizabeth Barrett Browning

The preceding pages of this yearbook have been our "Salute to the Old". Now we would like to pay tribute to all those who made this issue of the MONTAGE possible. Our sincerest thanks and appreciation go to Mr. Paul Lambert, who was always here with his camera when he was needed to help us capture the precious moments of our last year at California. Mr. John Kupets, the drive behind our business staff, is thanked for his help in raising the money for the publication of this book. The MONTAGE extends its sincerest thanks to Mr. Arthur T. Cairns whose knowledge, directions, and encouragement helped us publish this edition. The publication of this yearbook is the accomplishment of Roebuck and Sons whose advice we found indispensable. We would like to express our gratitude to the individuals and business establishments that have shown their confidence in our ability by the aid that we have received. In the following pages many names appear, so individual thanks would be a monumental task. Thus, we hope that this publication will in some small way thank them.

TODAY and YESTERDAY

In ancient Greece and Asia Minor, men often deposited their money in temples for safe keeping. An invasion of a rival city-state or a piratical raid from the coast frequently looted these funds. Even the rulers ignored the sanctity of the temples. Antiochus III in 190 B.C. attacked a wealthy temple at Elymais in order to pay a tribute to the Romans.

Today, Western Pennsylvania National Bank offers the safest, most convenient depository for your money. Your account is insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation up to $10,000 in every one of the many community offices and . . . it grows!

Ancient wealth frequently took the form of gold or silver vessels. Here is a gold rhyton used as a drinking cup around 342 B.C. in Thrace.
